

emotional year, when I questioned my own loyalty to the company, the one thing that I always knew was that I had to stay to learn more from Eric. There is a lot more of what he does that I can not articulate and that I am not well-versed in, but what I do know is that I have been extremely fortunate to know and to work with him, and that everyone should be so lucky. I would stake my professional qualifications on him, and that is definitely something I do not take lightly. Please give him your utmost consideration as you review his documents now.

Sincerely,
